Wilson Will Meet Union Officials
RALPH COUCH
(Written for the United Press)

Feb. 12—(Bulletin)—President Wilson will meet a delegation of three railroad union officials at 10:30 tomorrow morning, it was announced at the White House today.

It is expected that the president at this time will give to the railroad workers an answer to their demand for immediate wage increases which they have been pressing in negotiations with Rail Director Hines. These negotiations have been in progress since Feb. 3. The three members of the delegation will be selected from representatives of the fourteen railroad unions which have been carrying on the negotiations. They will see the president as he sits in his wheel chair in the White House gardens.

Before meeting the railroad men the president will study the whole wage controversy which was postponed last summer when he requested the men to give the government's fight to bring down living costs a chance to show results. A written report covering the entire controversy will be delivered to the president today, it was announced at the White House after a conference between Hines and J. P. Tumulty, secretary to the president. Following the announcement that the president would meet the railroad men personally Secretary Tumulty said that he had called off all cabinet meetings until further notice. It was recalled that the cabinet ended the coal strike and the calling off of the bi-weekly meetings was regarded as showing that the president decided to enter the railroad controversy alone. When informed the president would see them, the rail union leaders met to select a committee. Union leaders were not optimistic that their proposal would gain from the president their complete demands.

Banking Resources of U. S. 45 Billions

As Shown by the Report of U. S. Treasurer in His Annual Report to Congress

(By United Press)

Washington, Feb. 12—Banking resources of the United States now total more than $45,000,000,000, John Skelton Williams stated in his annual report to congress today.

Of this National banks on November 17, 1919, held $22,444,000,000, an increase of $11,585,000,000 since August, 1914. The State banks on June 30, 1919, held $26,380,000,000, an increase of $11,705,000,000 since June, 1913. It represents a banking power nine times greater than thirty years ago, Williams said.

One person out of every six has a bank account, according to Mr. Williams' report.

Williams suggested that the United States might solve the question of collecting its foreign balances by furnishing European countries the crude material and machinery so that their people may convert raw production into articles of merchandise worth from ten to a thousand times the value of raw material.

To bring the present foreign exchange back to the old gold parity, Williams said that there must be more production and greater thrift. "Foreign nations must avoid purchases and imports of luxuries and refuse even to import essentials when they can be produced at home," he advised.

Williams also declared every possible effort should be made to increase production abroad, of those things for which a market can be found in this country.

Williams said bankers can be of help in restricting speculation in necessities if they would impress on the people's minds that their assurance of future permanent and substantial profits can be had only by reducing present profits to the thinnest reasonable margin.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS MEET IN CHICAGO

Plan Campaigns for the Enactment of Legislation Beneficial to Woman's Interest

(By United Press)

Chicago, Feb. 12—Spurred on by the thrill of victory, suffrage leaders of America today want a new world to conquer. Preliminary to meeting of the American Women's Suffrage association, which will celebrate the accomplishment of ratification of the federal suffrage amendment to the constitution, committee of the organization met today to outline future campaigns.

Thirty states have now ratified the suffrage amendment. Thirty-six are expected to ratify it within the next month or so.

The committee planned the organization which will grow out of the suffrage association into the League of Women Voters, which will give attention to the following:

Supporting documents of Americanism. Obtaining greater facilities for education of illiterate aliens and miners.

Protection of women engaged in industrial pursuits. Safeguarding the welfare of children.

Future laws prohibiting speculation in food stuffs and other legislation to stabilize food prices.

Obtain and enforce social hygiene legislation.

Enforcement of laws concerning women, including divorce, property rights, citizenship and mothers pension.

Proposed Sedition Legislation will Kill Democratic Party

Chicago, Feb. 12—A third party would replace the democratic party if proposed sedition legislation is passed, said E. B. Lane, of Toledo, Ohio a delegate to the American Farmers-Labor Cooperative Congress here today.

"Proposed sedition legislation is unconstitutional," Lane said, "and if it is passed it will place the democratic party in the same position that the alien and sedition laws placed the Federalists in John Adams day. The federal party passed out of existence and so will the democratic party. They will be placed in the hall of 'has beens' if the sedition legislation proposal is passed. A third party probably would be the labor party and thus would take the place of the democrats in the political life of the country."

Method to Force Germany to Surrender War Guilty and Disposition of Constantinople Considered

London, Feb. 12—London today has replaced Paris as the head of deliberations to settle problems grown out of the world war.

With the "Big Three" conference of premiers in session to decide the future allies attitude toward Russia; settlement of the Adriatic dispute between Italy and Jugo-Slavia; disposition of Constantinople and measures to force Germany to live up to Article 228 of the peace treaty, and the council of the league of nations meeting to bring about the organization of the world society, London has become for the moment virtually the capital of Europe.

The "Big Three," Premiers Lloyd George, Millerand and Nitti, were confronted with some of the most difficult questions that have come up since the closing of the league conferences in Paris.

The matter included many that have been sidetracked time after time because of their delicacy. One of the first questions to come before the premiers it is believed, will be Germany's virtual refusal to deliver the list of war guilty, whose surrender and trial is demanded, and her delinquency in delivering coal to France as provided in the treaty. Germany already is far behind in these deliveries, French officials have complained. There were many indications that the premiers discussions probably will be marked by heated debate, as there would be loggerheads on many important questions.

Great Britain, it was said, is reluctant to allow a demand for the surrender of the war guilty to be made a test request as to Germany's intention toward the peace treaty, while France takes the position that drastic measures must be used if necessary to force Germany to live up to Article 228. The presence of Marshal Foch, who arrived late yesterday with Premier Millerand, was taken to indicate the French determination to discuss military measures if necessary to enforce the surrender of the accused Teutons. A wide split in plans for the disposition of Constantinople also was indicated.

Held for Stealing Checks

Chicago, Feb. 12—Six persons accused of stealing checks made to soldiers' dependents from the mails were held today by federal authorities.

The government believes a nation wide gang existed for the purpose of working the fraud. The two held were postal clerks and are alleged to have taken soldiers insurance payments, allotment for injury and death payments from the mails and their confederates cashed the checks.

Bees' Antiseptic.

Bees suck up the nectar, which does not pass into their stomach but into an expansion of the oesophagus. There it undergoes a partial chemical transformation, under the influence of a substance called invertase, which acts as a ferment. When the bee disgorges the honey into the wax cells it discharges a little invertase at the same time, and before closing the cell a tiny drop of venom from the bee's sting is added, this to prevent fermentation.
"Thus," says Bonnier, "the bees invented antiseptics before Pasteur or Lister." It is this drop of poison that preserves the honey for years.

Erickson-Menz

On Wednesday, February 11th, a simple home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. August Erickson at Oak Lawn, when their daughter, Alice, was united in marriage to Gustav Menz. The bride was attended by the Misses Myrtle Bredenberg and Esther Erickson, and Paul Erickson and Benjamin Erickson attended the groom. The ceremony was performed by Rev. P. Alfred Peterson of the Swedish Baptist church to the strains of "The Melody of Love" which was played by Miss Bessie Bredenberg.

The bride was very prettily dressed in blue taffeta and lace with hat to match and carried a corsage bouquet of pink roses and violets. The home was very prettily decorated with pink and white streamers and bells and boughs of fir.

Ho! The Detachable Lining

By MARGARET ROHE

(Written for the United Press)
The man who designed the detachable cuff

For this day and age didn't detach enough.
So some clever genius has just finished signing
The patent for dresses's detachable lining.

New York, Feb. 12.—You may have a detached air this Spring but to be really smart you must wear a detachable lining to your frock as well. Not smart in the chic sense of the word of course but downright clever for though one of these new detachable linings won't add much in a stylish way to your gown, as a first aid to sanitation, hygiene and time conservation they have no equal.

Just imagine the delight and relief, when the lining of your perfectly good new frock has become a bit soiled to detach it deftly and airily from its moorings and nonchalantly toss it to the hand maiden who presides over your weekly wash board and industriously rubs her way through your entire wardrobe. Then when she has had her way with it and it returns to you a bit worn but pure you fasten it quickly in place inside your gown again and presto all is as good as new.

Surely everyone but the dry cleaners are due to hail these detachable linings with joy and rapture and attach themselves with great despatch to a lining that will thus detach.

Made of heavy washable silk they can be obtained cut to any measure and can be adapted to any type of dress. Just for good measure they even come provided with an extra pair of sleeves. They certainly seem to be a mighty good thing to get next to or at least to get next to you.

Yet another detachable note promises to enter into our spring fashionable scheme of things and that is the return of the Alexandria curl, as they call it in London, or the old Janice Meredith curl as we knew it here, in days of yore. It is that one corkscrewed tress that is allowed to dangle intriguingly over one shoulder from a loosely pompadoured coiffure. Ten to one it is as detachable as the aforementioned linings but to be firmly attached to the scalp does not bar it from the mode. It is a question whether the American girl will take very kindly to this form of hairdress for here we go in rather for the smart and original type of coiffure than the romantic and curls are relegated to the realms of the films and reels and looked upon as the exclusive prerogative of the movie queen.

Even if we don't fall for the coy Alexandria curls this spring many queer things are due to go to our heads in the form of oilcloth hats in every hue and shape, hats woven of ribbons, rafia, heavy string and cord and even of the succulent soda water straw. These latter creations are bound to be quite tasty.

Cooperstown.

Probably the most complete monument to an American writer in existence is Cooperstown, a picturesque village in northwestern New York on Lake Otsego, near the source of the Susquehanna.

It was named after James Fenimore Cooper's father; it was the writer's home and is his burial place; the scenes of his various stories are laid around it and the greater part of its population at present is made up of his relatives or connections by marriage. In fact the whole place is flavored with the essence of Cooperism. A well-worn path to the writer's grave in the old village churchyard gives mute testimony to his popularity.

BONNIE

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

Dora slapped the white horse with her gloved hand, and he went cantering over the wooden bridge.

The clatter of the boards brought the girl to herself with a start—how many of the small bridges had they crossed since the beginning of the early afternoon? Lost in unhappy dreamings, she must have come very far.

Dora had determined not to be unhappy. So it was that she laughed and chatted overmuch at home with the old couple who sheltered her. It was in hours of relaxation like this, that sad realities protruded.

She did not feel the cold of the early winter air in the exhilaration of exercise. Dora's cheeks glowed scarlet as the winter berries peeping from beneath their beds of fallen leaves. The beautiful horse upon which the girl was seated seemed to enjoy with her the freedom and invigorating chase over country roads.

Dora talked to him softly as she brought him to a walk. Bonnie was her safe and chosen confidante. Bonnie was the dearest thing to her the world now contained, because of Bonnie's association with one other, whose dearness persisted, when it should in all self-respect be banished.

Dora went over her life as the horse picked his way through the wooded path, dwelling sadly upon the last three years. She had been an odd little atom, moved about here and there since her orphaned childhood.

She was thrust upon relatives who did not seek her coming yet ever mourned her departure. And then, three years ago, when the girl's frailty became very evident, it was suggested by the physician that she go away, out to the wide spaces surrounding the home of the old aunt and uncle of her dead mother. Here it was believed that the tonic air would restore the girl's strength and give to her her place in the world. Dora had been lonely at first among the rugged hills and shadowy woods, until—he had come; he, the one who satisfied every need of her hungry heart.

He had been so interested, so kind, and under his good-natured supervision, Dora gained health and strength, grew round and red of cheek, and merry.

John Hamilton, civil engineer, pressed upon the girl the use of his favorite horse Bonnie, and taught her to ride in the saddle, often by his own side, through woods and fields. And the hours thus spent together became enchanted hours, for love found them both.

The old aunt and uncle smiled understandingly, glad that their beloved girl should know happiness, even as they had known and kept it through all the years.

Dora blossomed in her joy like a small being transported. Then, one evening she came into the cottage home, silent in a grief which bore no questioning. John Hamilton had confessed to her through his love the fact of his owed allegiance to another.

He had been betrothed, he told her brokenly, to a girl back home, before his contract called him to work among the hills. This girl and he had gone to school together, their ultimate union being always an accepted fact. They became engaged before his departure for the new field. It was understood that they were to be married at Christmas. This was November—he would have to go back; he would tell Anita of Dora; that he had not known true love until he had met her. But this Dora forbade.

He must in all honor go back, she told him, and fulfill his promised part. In the hopelessness of their parting he begged Dora's acceptance of Bonnie—his last gift.

Since John Hamilton had gone, Dora seated upon the horse's back, had traveled many miles, with eyes unseeing, and heart weary. Now, upon this November day, she realized suddenly, that she had lost her way as the light falling snow changed into a bewildering storm. With a cry of dismay the girl bent her face to Bonnie's white mane.

"You'll have to find our way home, boy," she said. In the cold and the storm and the swift falling dusk, she clung with eyes closed against her fears as Bonnie bore her bravely on. Dora had no doubt that he would find his way to the warm shed behind her uncle's cottage. It was his coaxing neigh which brought Dora perplexed to an upright position to find herself in a spacious barn. Bonnie was confidently making her way toward a stall. And before the stall stood a man.

Dora's pride forsook her at sight of that dearly loved figure.

"John!" she gasped, and the man caught her close in his arms.

Bonnie, satisfied in his old home once more, continued into the stall.

"I have just come back," John Hamilton explained hastily. "Absence works many changes, dear, and love is not love, that alters." Anita wished me to set her free. There was a good-looking young fellow hanging over her at the piano when I entered her home. I think he is the reason, so I hurried back to you. Oh, my dear, how I did hurry back!"

Dora raised a radiant face.

"Bonnie knew," she said, "he brought me to you."

Miss Euphemia Johnson was attended by a confidential colored friend of her own sex when the railway company called her in to effect a cash settlement for the death of her husband, killed on his honeymoon. Mrs. Johnson had clouded her features with a heavy veil up to the time the corporation attorney had mentioned the sum, but when he produced the bills she threw back her badge of mourning and gazed eagerly on the bundle that flashed green and yellow in thick streaks. The lawyer withdrew after the signing of the release, and the two were left alone. "Euphemia," said the companion, "I suppose you'll be getting married again, now that you're so rich?" Euphemia paused, with a thick thumb half-way to her mouth for moisture and reflection. "Ef Ah do," she observed before resuming the counting the roll "it'd be none posson working on de same railway."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot be Cured. by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Ho! The Detachable Lining

By MARGARET ROHE

(Written for the United Press)
The man who designed the detachable cuff
For this day and age didn't detach enough.
So some clever genius has just finished signing
The patent for dresses's detachable lining.

New York, Feb. 12—You may have a detached air this Spring but to be really smart you must wear a detachable lining to your frock as well. Not smart in the chic sense of the word of course but downright clever for though one of these new detachable linings won't add much in a stylish way to your gown, as a first aid to sanitation, hygiene and time conservation they have no equal.

Just imagine the delight and relief, when the lining of your perfectly good new frock has become a bit soiled to detach it deftly and airily from its moorings and nonchalantly toss it to the hand maiden who presides over your weekly wash board and industriously rubs her way through your entire wardrobe. Then when she has had her way with it and it returns to you a bit worn but pure you fasten it quickly in place inside your gown again and presto all is as good as new.

Surely everyone but the dry cleaners are due to hail these detachable linings with joy and rapture and attach themselves with great despatch to a lining that will thus detach.

Made of heavy washable silk they can be obtained cut to any measure and can be adapted to any type of dress. Just for good measure they even come provided with an extra pair of sleeves. They certainly seem to be a mighty good thing to get next to or at least to get next to you.

Yet another detachable note promises to enter into our spring fashionable scheme of things and that is the return of the Alexandria curl, as they call it in London, or the old Janice Meredith curl as we knew it here, in days of yore. It is that one corkscrewed tress that is allowed to dangle intriguingly over one shoulder from a loosely pompadoured coiffure. Ten to one it is as detachable as the aforementioned linings but to be firmly attached to the scalp does not bar it from the mode. It is a question whether the American girl will take very kindly to this form of hairdress for here we go in rather for the smart and original type of coiffure than the romantic and curls are relegated to the realms of the films and reels and looked upon as the exclusive prerogative of the movie queen.

Even if we don't fall for the coy Alexandria curls this spring many queer things are due to go to our heads in the form of oilcloth hats in every hue and shape, hats woven of ribbons, raffa, heavy string and cord and even of the succulent soda water straw. These latter creations are bound to be quite tasty.

Cooperstown.

Probably the most complete monument to an American writer in existence is Cooperstown, a picturesque village in northwestern New York on Lake Osego, near the source of the Susquehanna. It was named after James Fenimore Cooper's father; it was the writer's home and is his burial place; the scenes of his various stories are laid around it and the greater part of its population at present is made up of his relatives or connections by marriage. In fact the whole place is flavored with the essence of Cooperism. A well-worn path to the writer's grave in the old village churchyard gives mute testimony to his popularity.

BONNIE

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

Dora slapped the white horse with her gloved hand, and he went cantering over the wooden bridge.

The clatter of the boards brought the girl to herself with a start—how many of the small bridges had they crossed since the beginning of the early afternoon? Lost in unhappy dreamings, she must have come very far.

Dora had determined not to be unhappy. So it was that she laughed and chaffed overmuch at home with the old couple who sheltered her. It was in hours of relaxation like this, that sad realities protruded.

She did not feel the cold of the early winter air in the exhilaration of exercise. Dora's cheeks glowed scarlet as the winter berries peeping from beneath their beds of fallen leaves. The beautiful horse upon which the girl was seated seemed to enjoy with her the freedom and invigorating chase over country roads.

Dora talked to him softly as she brought him to a walk. Bonnie was her safe and chosen confidante. Bonnie was the dearest thing to her the world now contained, because of Bonnie's association with one other, whose dearness persisted, when it should in all self-respect be banished.

Dora went over her life as the horse picked his way through the wooded path, dwelling sadly upon the last three years. She had been an odd little atom, moved about here and there since her orphaned childhood.

She was thrust upon relatives who did not seek her coming yet ever mourned her departure. And then, three years ago, when the girl's frailty became very evident, it was suggested by the physician that she go away, out to the wide spaces surrounding the home of the old aunt and uncle of her dead mother. Here it was believed that the tonic air would restore the girl's strength and give to her her place in the world. Dora had been lonely at first among the rugged hills and shadowy woods, until—he had come; he, the one who satisfied every need of her hungry heart.

He had been so interested, so kind, and under his good-natured supervision, Dora gained health and strength, grew round and red of cheek, and merry.

John Hamilton, civil engineer, pressed upon the girl the use of his favorite horse Bonnie, and taught her to ride in the saddle, often by his own side, through woods and fields. And the hours thus spent together became enchanted hours, for love found them both.

The old aunt and uncle smiled understandingly, glad that their beloved girl should know happiness, even as they had known and kept it through all the years.

Dora blossomed in her joy like a small being transported. Then, one evening she came into the cottage home, silent in a grief which bore no questioning. John Hamilton had confessed to her through his love the fact of his owed allegiance to another.

He had been betrothed, he told her brokenly, to a girl back home, before his contract called him to work among the hills. This girl and he had gone to school together, their ultimate union being always an accepted fact. They became engaged before his departure for the new field. It was understood that they were to be married at Christmas. This was November—he would have to go back; he would tell Anita of Dora; that he had not known true love until he had met her. But this Dora forbade.

He must in all honor go back, she told him, and fulfill his promised part. In the hopelessness of their parting he begged Dora's acceptance of Bonnie—his last gift.

Since John Hamilton had gone, Dora seated upon the horse's back, had traveled many miles, with eyes unseeing, and heart weary. Now, upon this November day, she realized suddenly, that she had lost her way as the light falling snow changed into a bewildering storm. With a cry of dismay the girl bent her face to Bonnie's white mane.

"You'll have to find our way home, boy," she said. In the cold and the storm and the swift falling dusk, she clung with eyes closed against her fears as Bonnie bore her bravely on. Dora had no doubt that he would find his way to the warm shed behind her uncle's cottage. It was his coaxing neigh which brought Dora perplexedly to an upright position to find herself in a spacious barn. Bonnie was confidently making her way toward a stall. And before the stall stood a man.

Dora's pride forsook her at sight of that dearily loved figure.

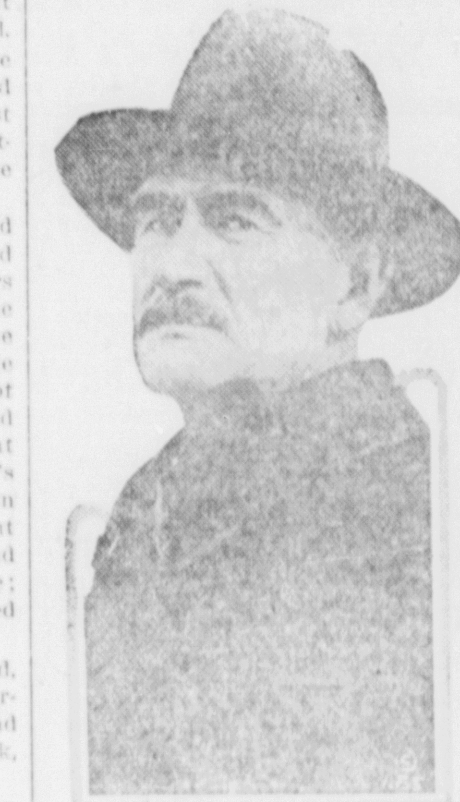

"John!" she gasped, and the man caught her close in his arms.

Bonnie, satisfied in his old home once more, continued into the stall.

"I have just come back," John Hamilton explained hastily. "Absence works many changes, dear, and love is not love, that alters." Anita wished me to set her free. There was a good-looking young fellow hanging over her at the piano when I entered her home. I think he is the reason, so I hurried back to you. Oh, my dear, how I did hurry back!"

Dora raised a radiant face.

"Bonnie knew," she said, "he brought me to you."

LINCOLN AS AN ORATOR

(By Robert G. Ingersoll)

Lincoln was not a type. He stands alone—no ancestors, no fellows, no successors. * * * He was an orator—clear, sincere, natural. He did not pretend. He did not say what he thought others thought, but what he thought.

If you wish to be sublime you must be natural—you must keep close to the grass. You must sit by the fire-side of the heart; above the clouds it is too cold. You must be simple in your speech; too much polish suggests insincerity.

If you wish to know the difference between an orator and an elocutionist—between what is felt and what is said—between what the heart and brain can do together and what the brain can do alone—read Lincoln's wondrous speech at Gettysburg, and then the oration of Edward Everett.

The speech of Lincoln will never be forgotten. It will live until languages are dead and lips are dust. The oration of Everett will never be read. * * * Lincoln was the greatest figure of the heretofore civil war. He is the gentlest memory of our world.

ADMIRAL HUGH RODMAN

Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander of the Pacific fleet, with Mick, his red Irish setter, on the quarterdeck of the flagship New Mexico.

Janitor.

The Romans always had a slave who stood by the door. Since the latter was called "janua," the term "janitor" came to be applied to him. Our janitors have a great many duties other than those connected with waiting upon the door; but this detail of Roman house management is crystallized in their name.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel: like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it is no longer irritating, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications. A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is still light.

LINCOLN AS AN ORATOR

(By Robert G. Ingersoll)

Lincoln was not a type. He stands alone—no ancestors, no fellows, no successors. * * * He was an orator—clear, sincere, natural. He did not pretend. He did not say what he thought others thought, but what he thought.

If you wish to be sublime you must be natural—you must keep close to the grass. You must sit by the fire-side of the heart; above the clouds it is too cold. You must be simple in your speech; too much polish suggests insincerity.

If you wish to know the difference between an orator and an eloquentist—between what is felt and what is said—between what the heart and brain can do together and what the brain can do alone—read Lincoln's wondrous speech at Gettysburg, and then the oration of Edward Everett.

The speech of Lincoln will never be forgotten. It will live until languages are dead and lips are dust. The oration of Everett will never be read. * * * Lincoln was the grandest figure of the merest civil war. He is the gentlest memory of our world.

BUDGET PLAN IS ADOPTED

Chamber of Commerce to Put Into Effect That Plan to Raise Necessary Funds for Club

PRES. F. H. SIMPSON OUTLINES

In Statement the Aims of Chamber of Commerce and the Details of Budget System

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held on Wednesday evening. Of most importance was the consideration and adoption of the budget plan of financing the operations of the Chamber of Commerce as a civic clearing house.

The following written by President F. H. Simpson of the Chamber of Commerce sets forth the aims of the organization, the necessity of the budget system and other matters as follows:

As the budget committee of the Chamber of Commerce will, in the near future, call upon the public of Brainerd for subscription to the budget fund, I have been requested to make a statement, setting forth the purposes of this budget fund, the object and purposes of the Chamber of Commerce and the results which it seeks to achieve, to the end that public may have a more thorough knowledge of its activities.

The Chamber of Commerce is purely a civic organization, neither political or religious in its nature, its purpose being to advance in every legitimate way the welfare of Brainerd, Crow Wing county, and, in a general way, central and northern Minnesota.

We seek as members, every public spirited citizen, every man who is by nature a "booster," to the end that the combined and united efforts of all will be back of the efforts to build up and improve the community.

In the past the funds which have been used to finance this work have in a very large measure been contributed by a comparatively small number of public spirited men, but the amount so raised has not been sufficient to accomplish all that might be desired and the Chamber has been handicapped in its work by this lack of funds.

Citizens know only too well the nuisance of making frequent contributions when the different solicitors, not always members of the Chamber, call with subscription lists. It is intended to minimize this nuisance, and it is believed that if our citizens will contribute to the budget fund, an amount at least equal to what they usually contribute each year to various solicitors, the moneys and efforts will be more far-reaching and more effective.

To the budget committee has been assigned the work of raising a fund with which to better finance this work and to fairly apportion it for certain activities.

Following, in a general way, is an outline of the things for which this fund will be used:

(1) Publicity, or the advertisement of the opportunities, possibilities and attractiveness of this county and city.

(2) City Development. An effort will be made to induce manufacturing plants, wholesale and jobbing houses to locate here.

(3) County Development. This includes the bringing in of new settlers to open the now unused lands of the county and aid in building up the agricultural, dairying and also the mining industries as well as our lake resorts.

(4) Conventions. We desire to bring to our city as many conventions and other gatherings as possible and make Brainerd a convention city.

(5) Health and Sanitation. The work under this head includes those things which will make Brainerd a desirable and healthful place in which to live.

(6) Educational. The Chamber seeks to cooperate in every way possible, to aid in making our educational facilities second to none, that the children of Brainerd may be as well equipped as any to take up the burdens of life.

(7) Legislation. The work under this head consists of aiding in legitimate ways such legislation as will promote the general welfare, also to aid in defeating such legislation as would be detrimental.

(8) Secretary's Salary. The above activities can only be successfully carried on by a competent secretary, whose entire time is required, and who will be paid a salary consistent with his ability and requirements of present day living conditions. It is the intention to pay the salary as far as possible from the general fund raised from memberships, but should this fund not be sufficient for that purpose, any deficit will be paid from this budget fund.

(9) Unassigned or Contingent Fund. A reasonable fund to be set aside to take care of any public activities which may come to the attention of the Chamber in the future and which are now unknown and cannot be foreseen. Many such occasions arise each year.

The funds set aside for each of these several activities is to be used only for that purpose designated, and when the fund is exhausted, work along that line will cease until the next year's budget is formed.

Signed,
F. H. SIMPSON,
President.

Ushers were garbed in the robes of China. Frank G. Hall, ticket taker, appeared in the solemn, staid garb of a Mandarin of highest rank. The soft incense of josh sticks floated about the house. BUDGET PLAN IS ADOPTED

Chamber of Commerce to Put Into Effect That Plan to Raise Necessary Funds for Club

PRES. F. H. SIMPSON OUTLINES

In Statement the Aims of Chamber of Commerce and the Details of Budget System

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held on Wednesday evening. Of most importance was the consideration and adoption of the budget plan of financing the operations of the Chamber of Commerce as a civic clearing house.

The following written by President F. H. Simpson of the Chamber of Commerce sets forth the aims of the organization, the necessity of the budget system and other matters as follows:

As the budget committee of the Chamber of Commerce will, in the near future, call upon the public of Brainerd for subscription to the budget fund, I have been requested to make a statement, setting forth the purposes of this budget fund, the object and purposes of the Chamber of Commerce and the results which it seeks to achieve, to the end that public may have a more thorough knowledge of its activities.

The Chamber of Commerce is purely a civic organization, neither political or religious in its nature, its purpose being to advance in every legitimate way the welfare of Brainerd, Crow Wing county, and, in a general way, central and northern Minnesota.

We seek as members, every public spirited citizen, every man who is by nature a "booster," to the end that the combined and united efforts of all will be back of the efforts to build up and improve the community.

In the past the funds which have been used to finance this work have in a very large measure been contributed by a comparatively small number of public spirited men, but the amount so raised has not been sufficient to accomplish all that might be desired and the Chamber has been handicapped in its work by this lack of funds.

Citizens know only too well the nuisance of making frequent contributions when the different solicitors, not always members of the Chamber, call with subscription lists. It is intended to minimize this nuisance, and it is believed that if our citizens will contribute to the budget fund, an amount at least equal to what they usually contribute each year to various solicitors, the moneys and efforts will be more far-reaching and more effective.

To the budget committee has been assigned the work of raising a fund with which to better finance this work and to fairly apportion it for certain activities.

Following, in a general way, is an outline of the things for which this fund will be used:

(1) Publicity, or the advertisement of the opportunities, possibilities and attractiveness of this county and city.

(2) City Development. An effort will be made to induce manufacturing plants, wholesale and jobbing houses to locate here.

(3) County Development. This includes the bringing in of new settlers to open the now unused lands of the county and aid in building up the agricultural, dairying and also the mining industries as well as our lake resorts.

(4) Conventions. We desire to bring to our city as many conventions and other gatherings as possible and make Brainerd a convention city.

(5) Health and Sanitation. The work under this head includes those things which will make Brainerd a desirable and healthful place in which to live.

(6) Educational. The Chamber seeks to cooperate in every way possible, to aid in making our educational facilities second to none, that the children of Brainerd may be as well equipped as any to take up the burdens of life.

(7) Legislation. The work under this head consists of aiding in legitimate ways such legislation as will promote the general welfare, also to aid in defeating such legislation as would be detrimental.

(8) Secretary's Salary. The above activities can only be successfully carried on by a competent secretary, whose entire time is required, and who will be paid a salary consistent with his ability and requirements of present day living conditions. It is the intention to pay the salary as far as possible from the general fund raised from memberships, but should this fund not be sufficient for that purpose, any deficit will be paid from this budget fund.

(9) Unassigned or Contingent Fund. A reasonable fund to be set aside to take care of any public activities which may come to the attention of the Chamber in the future and which are now unknown and cannot be foreseen. Many such occasions arise each year.

The funds set aside for each of these several activities is to be used only for that purpose designated, and when the fund is exhausted, work along that line will cease until the next year's budget is formed.

Signed,
F. H. SIMPSON,
President.

TO ASSIMILATE FOREIGN BORN

KENYON AMERICANIZATION BILL BEING CONSIDERED BY THE HOUSE COMMITTEE.

ONLY OBJECTION IS EXPENSE

Main Features of the Measure Which Proposes Federal Co-Operation With the States in the Education of Immigrant Residents.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The committee on education of the house of representatives now has under consideration the bill passed by the senate the other day to promote Americanization "by providing for co-operation with the several states in the education of non-English-speaking persons and the assimilation of foreign-born residents." The bill was known in the senate as the Kenyon Americanization bill. It had to run the gauntlet of some stiff opposition in that body, mainly based on the cost of such an undertaking. Assuming that the committee on education reports it favorably, and that seems to be the committee's intention, it will meet with opposition in the house on the same grounds. Everybody realizes that the purpose of the legislation is fine, and the view the senate finally took was that with such an excellent purpose involved, the question of expense should not stand in the way of carrying it out.

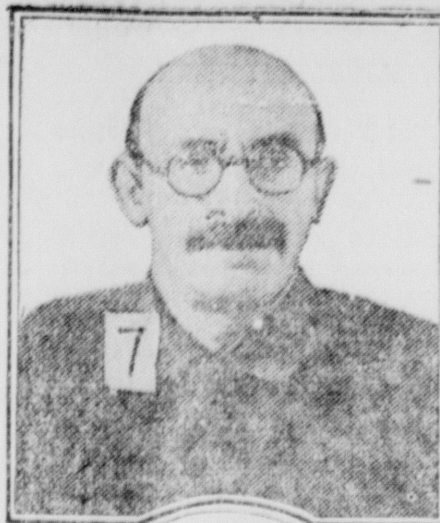

Speaking in a general way, the bill proposes that the federal government shall co-operate with the states in educating the illiterates of the country, some 7,000,000 in number. The bill appropriates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, $6,500,000. The whole enterprise would be conducted by the department of the interior. To begin with, $336,100 would be expended in administrative offices. Here in Washington there would be one administrative officer at $5,000 a year, four at $4,000, three at $3,500, five at $3,000 each, four at $2,750 each, and five at $2,500 each. Clerks, stenographers and messengers in Washington would call for an expenditure of $37,000 annually. As the bill now stands, four regional officers are provided for at $3,500, and eight regional officers at $3,000 each.

Would Allot Sums to the States. After deducting the $336,100 set aside for administrative expenses, the remainder of the $6,500,000 would be apportioned by the secretary of the interior among the several states "in the ratio which the number of resident illiterates and other persons unable to understand, speak, read or write the English language, sixteen years of age and over, bears to the number of resident illiterates and other persons unable to understand, speak, read or write the English language, sixteen years of age and over, within the continental United States." There is a provision in the bill that the total sum allotted to any state shall not be less than $5,000 in any fiscal year.

No state under the proposed legislation would be able to get any of the federal money until it had done these things:

- (1) Accept the provisions of the federal act.
- (2) Designate an appropriate official to act as custodian of the federal money allotted to the state.
- (3) Authorize its department of education or chief school officer to co-operate with the United States in the work authorized.
- (4) Appropriate or make available an amount equal to that allotted to the state by the federal government.
- (5) Require all resident persons, whether citizens of the United States or aliens, sixteen years of age or over, and under twenty-one years of age, who are illiterate, or unable to speak or read the English language, to attend classes of instruction for not less than two hundred hours a year or until they shall have completed a specified course prepared by the department of education or by the chief school officer of the state, and approved by the secretary of the interior.
- (6) Provide as far as possible and practicable for the education of resident persons of the age of twenty-one years or more and less than fifty years of age who are illiterate or unable to read, write or speak the English language.
- (7) Require the submission annually to the secretary of the interior of a report which shall show the plan for administration and supervision, course of study, methods and kind of instruction, equipment, qualification of teachers, supervisors, directors of education and other necessary administrative officers and employees, plans for the preparation of teachers, supervisors and directors of education and receipts and expenditures of money for the preceding fiscal year.

Men in congress who have given thought to the Americanization problem believe this legislation would fit in with the universal training legislation proposed in the senate military bill. There is now some question, however, whether congress can come to an agreement on universal training legislation. The leaders in the house of representatives have taken rather a determined stand against it because of expense.

"You have arms. You know how to use them. Will you, like slaves, use them in defense of your master, or will you use them to help your class be free? If the former, then you know that you will meet with determined resistance of the united revolutionary people of East and Central Europe, and History will be your judge. If the latter, then here's a hearty welcome into the ranks of international labor."

"We want you to understand that every country in the world—including your own—can become a socialistic state, a workmen's country, if only it follows the Russian example. Every nation in the world—including the 'Yankee race'—can become a really free nation, if it only does away with the trusts, the money lords and the bloodthirsty exploiters. It is up to you American soldiers to do it! It is up to you to bring the great lesson of the Russian Revolution home to your toiling and suffering brothers. It's up to you to start it there—in your own America, you just start it—and your brothers will follow you! You just dare! You have nothing to lose but your chains. You have a world to gain."

"You just dare to take home with you the Red Banner of the Revolution—and inscribe upon it: 'Down with capitalism! 'Long live Industrial Freedom! 'Long live Socialism!'"

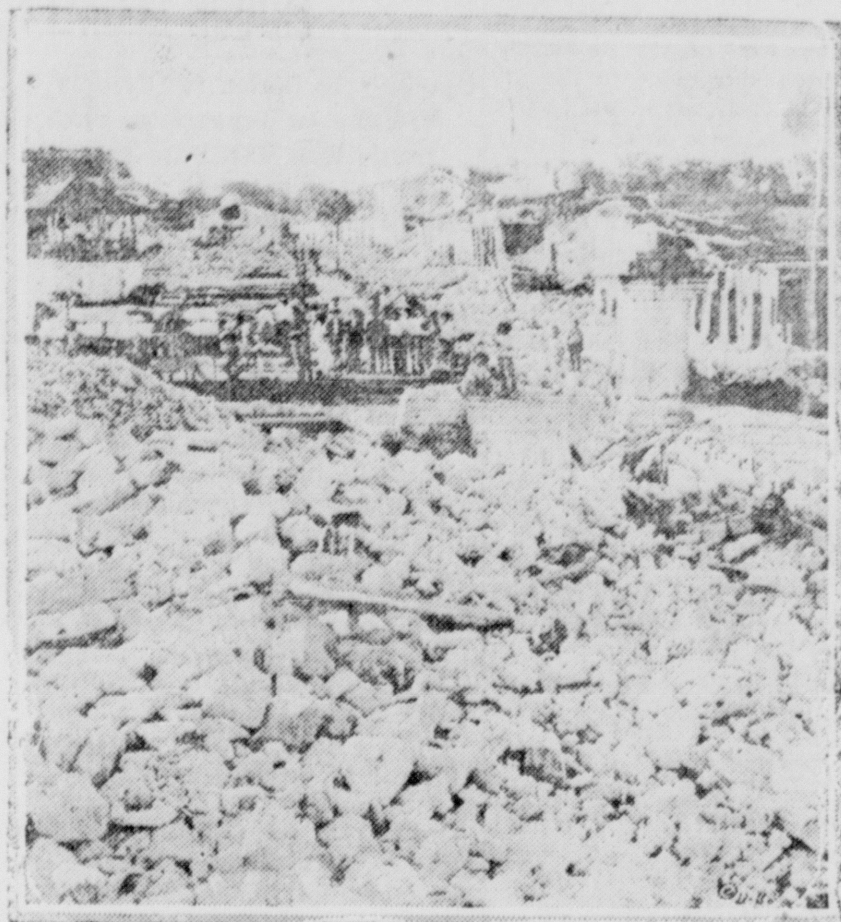

"You probably would let us alone and go home, if your officers would let you. But they do not intend to let you do so. You are under their orders, and they are under the orders of 'higher ups,' etc. At the top of the whole pile are the wealthy capitalists who want to get their greedy hands upon the mines and factories, railways, etc., of Russia. That is the reason you are here to rob workmen and make millionaires richer."

"We know that you are bound, hand and foot by discipline and have been in blind ignorance of what you were doing here or why you came. The only way that you can do the decent thing is by breaking the discipline that drives you to this crime against your own kind, the working class."

"The war is over. There is no honest reason for you to submit to military orders. You are not fighting 'German militarism.' You are submitting to it when you obey the commands of your own officer."

"You can break away. We know that you can, for we did. You are powerful enough and numerous enough to arrest the officers or to do with them what you please. Or you can come over to us."

BACK-ACHE, Pain In Side, Kidneys

St. Paul, Minn.—I was troubled with disordered kidneys for about two years—my back ached terribly, side pained and I had frequent excretions. I let it run on until I read of Dr. Pierce's Anurie (anti-uric-acid). I took the Anurie but a short time when I was feeling fine. My side and back stopped paining, and kidneys acted normally. I could sleep well at night which I couldn't do before. I certainly advise any one suffering from kidney disorders to use the Anurie Tablets."—Mrs. LOUISE GILFILLAN, 289 State St.

The kidneys and bladder suffer from the wear and tear and we get chronic inflammations sometimes indicated by backache, painful voiding of water—dull, heavy feelings. Perhaps the uric acid is stored up in the system in excessive amount, and consequently when the urate salts are deposited in muscles and joints one suffers from lumbago (pain in back), rheumatic pains, zoth, etc.

Nothing will act so nicely as "Anurie" (anti-uric-acid), a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce's which can be had at all drug stores. "Anurie" washes away the poisons, cleanses the bladder and kidneys—rendering them antiseptic—consequently one is soon cured of lumbago, rheumatism, gout, and the body is put into a clean, healthy state.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—road-bed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

KENYON AMERICANIZATION BILL BEING CONSIDERED BY THE HOUSE COMMITTEE.

ONLY OBJECTION IS EXPENSE

Main Features of the Measure Which Proposes Federal Co-Operation With the States in the Education of Illiterate Residents.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The committee on education of the house of representatives now has under consideration the bill passed by the senate the other day to promote Americanization "by providing for co-operation with the several states in the education of non-English-speaking persons and the assimilation of foreign-born residents." The bill was known in the senate as the Kenyon Americanization bill. It had to run the gauntlet of some stiff opposition in that body, mainly based on the cost of such an undertaking. Assuming that the committee on education reports it favorably, and that seems to be the committee's intention, it will meet with opposition in the house on the same grounds. Everybody realizes that the purpose of the legislation is fine, and the view the senate finally took was that with such an excellent purpose involved, the question of expense should not stand in the way of carrying it out.

Speaking in a general way, the bill proposes that the federal government shall co-operate with the states in educating the illiterates of the country, some 7,000,000 in number. The bill appropriates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, $6,500,000. The whole enterprise would be conducted by the department of the interior. To begin with, $330,100 would be expended in administrative offices. Here in Washington there would be one administrative officer at $5,000 a year, four at $4,000, three at $3,500, five at $3,000 each, four at $2,750 each, and five at $2,500 each. Clerks, stenographers and messengers in Washington would call for an expenditure of $37,000 annually. As the bill now stands, four regional officers are provided for at $3,500, and eight regional officers at $3,000 each.

Would Allot Sums to the States. After deducting the $330,100 set aside for administrative expenses, the remainder of the $6,500,000 would be apportioned by the secretary of the interior among the several states "in the ratio which the number of resident illiterates and other persons unable to understand, speak, read or write the English language, sixteen years of age and over, bears to the number of resident illiterates and other persons unable to understand, speak, read or write the English language, sixteen years of age and over, within the continental United States." There is a provision in the bill that the total sum allotted to any state shall not be less than $5,000 in any fiscal year.

No state under the proposed legislation would be able to get any of the federal money until it had done these things:

(1) Accept the provisions of the federal act.

(2) Designate an appropriate official to act as custodian of the federal money allotted to the state.

(3) Authorize its department of education or chief school officer to co-operate with the United States in the work authorized.

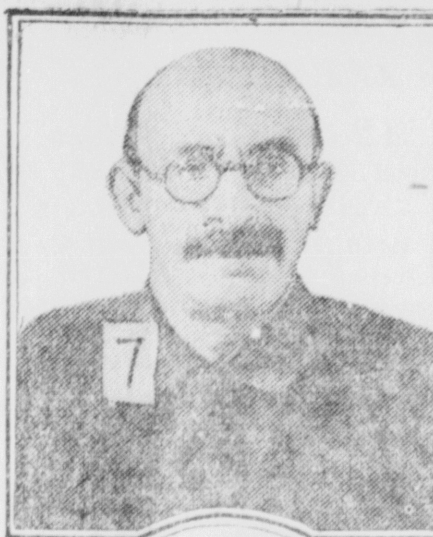

(4) Appropriate or make available an amount equal to that allotted to the state by the federal government.

Would Compel Instruction. (5) Require all resident persons, whether citizens of the United States or aliens, sixteen years of age or over, and under twenty-one years of age, who are illiterate, or unable to speak or read the English language, to attend classes of instruction for not less than two hundred hours a year or until they shall have completed a specified course prepared by the department of education or by the chief school officer of the state, and approved by the secretary of the interior.

(6) Provide as far as possible and practicable for the education of resident persons of the age of twenty-one years or more and less than fifty years of age who are illiterate or unable to read, write or speak the English language.

(7) Require the submission annually to the secretary of the interior of a report which shall show the plan for administration and supervision, course of study, methods and kind of instruction, equipment, qualification of teachers, supervisors, directors of education and other necessary administrative officers and employees, plans for the preparation of teachers, supervisors and directors of education and receipts and expenditures of money for the preceding fiscal year.

Men in congress who have given thought to the Americanization problem believe this legislation would fit in with the universal training legislation proposed in the senate military bill. There is now some question, however, whether congress can come to an agreement on universal training legislation. The leaders in the house of representatives have taken rather a determined stand against it because of expense.

St. Paul, Minn.—I was troubled with disordered kidneys for about two years—my back ached terribly, side pained and I had frequent excretions. I let it run on until I read of Dr. Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid). I took the Anuric but a short time when I was feeling fine. My side and back stopped paining, and kidneys acted normally. I could sleep well at night which I couldn't do before. I certainly advise any one suffering from kidney disorders to use the Anuric Tablets.—Mrs. LOUISE GLENNAN, 289 State St.

The kidneys and bladder suffer from the wear and tear and we get chronic inflammations sometimes indicated by backache, painful voiding of water—dull, heavy feelings. Perhaps the uric acid is stored up in the system in excessive amount, and consequently when the urate salts are deposited in muscles and joints one suffers from lumbago (pain in back), rheumatic pains, gout, etc.

Nothing will act so nicely as "Anuric" (anti-uric-acid), a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce's which can be had at all drug stores. "Anuric" washes away the poisons, cleanses the bladder and kidneys—rendering them antiseptic—consequently one is soon cured of lumbago, rheumatism, gout, and the body is put into a clean, healthy state.

BRAINERD PEOPLE PREVENT APPENDICITIS

Many Brainerd people are using simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adler-I-ka. This flushes BOTH upper and lower bowel so completely it removes all four, accumulated poisons from alimentary canal and prevents appendicitis. Adler-I-ka relieves ANY CASE gas on stomach, or sour stomach. Often CURES constipation. In one case of chronic stomach trouble ONE bottle produced wonderful results. Johnson's Pharmacy.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—road-bed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.
